THE explanation which has been officially given by Count ROCHECHOUART Concerning the negotiations with regard to the Tientsin Massacre, shows that the French Charge is placed after the part already published. d'Affaires has acted with great ability in most trying situa tion. The correspondence published, entirely clears Count given in successive ultimatums : and, second-Chun How. With respect to the former that he had not proposed any terms as final, but had suggested such as occurred to him from time to time without putting them as a sine qua non—the best, no doubt, that he could do under the difficult circumstances in which he was placed. As regards Chung How, his consent to that the respect to the former which the public.

As regards Chung How, his consent to that CHUN How. With respect to the former the public. contrary, it will rest with Churc How himthe despatch "if he can." By consenting to promoted conditioning this arrangement. Count ROCHECHOUART gains what is essential under present circum-Stances-time. The Chinese, in the hope that Church How may settle the matter, are given vise to various surmises as to the action as is well-known, is the first of the company's summary rejection of our demands, and so likely to use their endeavours to prevent, and of the Home Government. It is stated that be starmers that has moored alongside the wharf, encourage further outrage. Or will the means affairs will probably in the course of a few is to take a position in the Legation, but what a convenience to which all who attended the be resorted to now, which ought to have been departure of friends on Saturday can simply adopted at first—coercion. The sword, only months be so changed that both France

The fact that the Chinese have taken the is the hearer of important despatches from the office to the moorings outside, and the Jopan will remain here, to preserve quiet, and would matter in hand themselves, and constituted House Government, and it is to be hope that then gracefully and slowly glided on her way, stay, if the case were his. Their four French, themselves the sole judges of what reparation should be made, has been admirably China . When the state of the availed of by Count ROCHECHOUART. He neither accepts nor rejects the reparation, This he leaves entirely to his Government and thus, while keeping the door open for ultimately demanding fuller satisfaction, he still gives the Chinese the strongest motive for preventing outrages at all events until the will of the French Government can be known. Thus, without compromising himself or his country in any way, he has con- visiting, so has to affect the properties of the trived to do all that was in his power, that wire by merely looking at, or even touching; is, to obtain the fullest securiety for his countrymen and other foreigners pending the final settlement of the affair.

As respects the actions of the Chinese, it is such as there can be no question will not be accepted at their hands. They have simply asserted to Foreign nations: the principle that they will be the arbiters in all difficulties, and by arranging a certain line of apparant, and only apparent, reparation; they have thrown out a defiance to the French nation, which it is will not be possible to allow to pass without the most serious consequences. They have placed themselves in a worse, instead of in a better. position, adding to the original offence of the outrage, a direct insult to France, i not indeed, to all foreign nations. It will be a new thing if the Chinese are to be allowed to enter upon negotiations and to break them off on their own terms, without even asking whether those terms will be accepted or not. Buch a course simply means that foreign nations must yield to Chinese insolence and deception, or go to wretches, who had sold their lives in conwar, and when the question is put upon such sideration of an award being made to their a basis, it is manifest the only one line of families. All the Mandarius get off with action open for foreigners to adopt in order to preserve their national dignity, and and Foo are banished, and Chune How, to obtain security for their subjects in this probably the most guilty of all, is sent as country. It is perfectly clear that, relying special Ambassador to Paris. Such is the upon the unfortunate state of affairs in such total of the reparation that has been France at the present moment, the Chinese have fully determined not to grant any substantial reparation. A show of justice only has been made. The exiled Mandarine will goon be reinstated; it is doubtful whether this Finding that the terms demanded were the wretched men executed were the real such as they could not comply with, they criminals or not, and it is certain, that they were buried in state and treated rather as martyrs that as culprits, and that handsome pecuniary compensation was made to their relatives. In short, the Chinese being foolish enough to imagine that the present difficulties in Europe justify them in no longer

The Ordinance for regulating the Chinese is not the only A forced entry for all witners, optional for statute under which the natives in this Colony all other Ponies, that have run at this Meeting, are nor raed, or miscoverned, as you may see -The 10 such - Weight for inches as per fit to designate it. Without alluding to minor enactments, there is the Gambling Ordinance which works directly into the executive administration of the Colony, and any reformalition that is made must certainly be brought to bear apon the manner in which the provisions of this enartment are carried out. It is stated, that the proprietors of the houses have to call in the assistance of Mr. Caldwell and a swarm of runners to dispover criminals in these establishmenta. Now, if this is the case, I emplatically say we want revolution, and not reform, in this particular department-wa want nothing less than a death blow struck at n averem which takes the most important functions of the government out of he hands, and places it in those of private parties. And so, also, with respect to the district watchmen. nothing will put that outter right. It is contrary to every dictate of common sense, and is productive of so much abuse, that it ought to he put down altogether. I do not see that any bull mensures will do in these matters, and they are the chief ones to which attention has been called, and which most urgently require

As to the question of the government of the Chinese generally, I am strongly of opinion that the system at force in Hongkong is wrong altogether, and that we do not want's separate kind of government for the natives; but we do want efficient men to let them know what the laws are in the simplest possible way, and, public generally, in place of by proclamations munity know nothing. I can see no reason for such a department as the Protectorate of Chineso-nt least, an at present conducted.
